

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) for Bachelor of Hotel Management Course

1. What is a Bachelor of Hotel Management (BHM) course?

- A BHM course is an undergraduate program that focuses on preparing students for careers in the hospitality industry, particularly in hotel management. It covers various aspects such as hospitality operations, food and beverage management, accommodation management, front office operations, and more.

2. What are the eligibility criteria for admission to a BHM course?

- Candidates must have completed high school (10+2) or its equivalent from a recognized board or university with a minimum D grade in each subject or a GPA of 1.8

3. What subjects are covered in a BHM course?

- BHM courses typically cover a wide range of subjects including hospitality management, food production or kitchen management, accommodation management, food and beverage service, front office operations, marketing in hospitality, financial management, human resource management, tourism management, and more.

4. What are the career prospects after completing a BHM course?

- Graduates of BHM courses have various career opportunities in the hospitality industry. They can work in hotels, resorts, restaurants, cruise ships, event management companies, airline catering, and more. Some common job roles include hotel manager, restaurant manager, event planner, catering manager, front office manager, food and beverage manager, and tourism manager.

5. Is there any practical training included in the BHM course?

- Yes, most BHM courses include practical training or internships as part of the curriculum. This allows students to gain hands-on experience in hospitality operations and develop essential skills required for their future careers. Internships are usually conducted in hotels, resorts, or other hospitality establishments.

6. What is the duration of a BHM course?

- The duration of a BHM course is four years ( or eight semesters).

7. What are the key skills required for success in the hospitality industry?

- Key skills required for success in the hospitality industry include communication skills, interpersonal skills, problem-solving abilities, leadership qualities, organisational skills, attention to detail, customer service orientation, flexibility, and adaptability.

8. Is it necessary to have prior experience in the hospitality industry to pursue a BHM course?

- No, prior experience in the hospitality industry is not usually required for admission to a BHM course. However, candidates with relevant work experience or a background in hospitality may have an advantage in grasping certain concepts during the course.

9. Can I pursue further studies after completing a BHM course?

- Yes, after completing a BHM course, you can pursue higher education such as a master's degree in hospitality management, tourism management, business administration, or related fields. Additionally, you may also opt for certifications or specialised courses to enhance your skills and knowledge in specific areas of hospitality management.